Play "Old Turtle"

2. The players look at the cards that they have been dealt and set down any pairs they have.
3. Going around in a circle, each player will take a turn to pick a card from the person on their right. The person they are choosing the card from should put his or her cards spread out face down, so that they can select a card from their cards without seeing it and add it to their cards.

- *Number of players: Two or more
Cut all the cards out before play
Dealing and play go clockwise
1. One player is the dealer. The dealer deals out all the cards to the players. (Depending on how many players you have, some players may have one more card than others. This doesn't make a difference as to who wins.)

Play "Old Turtle"

6. Eventually all the cards will have been put into sets, except one. The last player will be left with the 'Old Turtle.' The players to set down all the cards in their hands first are 'safe.'

4. If the card the player takes makes a pair in their hand, they set the pair down.
 5. The player who just took a card then offers their hand to the player to their left, and so on.
